

LIMIT OF FOREIGN-LED ANTI-TERRORISM OPERATION AND THE RISE OF "SOVEREIGNTY" IN AFRICA

Ms. Uesu will discuss the rise of jihadist movements in Africa, with special reference to the Sahel region. She will also highlight the growing ideological emphasis on "sovereignty" among African countries, drawing on insights gained from her participation in the recent Dakar International Forum on Peace and Security, held in Senegal in April of this year. Ms. Uesu specializes in political economy and security issues in the Sahel and West Africa. She has experience working at the Embassy of Japan in France and as an analyst of international terrorism at the Intelligence and Analysis Service of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Japan.
