

April 2025 Admission Information

School of Japan Studies Entrance Examination (English-Speaker track)

The School of Japan Studies offers students the opportunity to study Japan from a multi-disciplinary, international perspective. The program is unique in that it enables Japanese and international students to take the same courses and learn in a shared environment. Students will learn innovative problem-solving skills, which will prepare them for life in an increasingly diverse and globalized world. Students who enter the School of Japan Studies will take classes from TUFS' Global Liberal Arts Program and Core Seminar Program, while receiving intensive training in Japanese. Upon graduation, students will be awarded a Bachelor's degree in Language and Area Studies. To graduate, students must complete 125 credits and submit a graduation project thesis or equivalent project. Theses may be written in English or Japanese.

■ Admission Policy

(1) Our Mission

The mission of the Tokyo University of Foreign Studies is to better equip students with the skills and knowledge they will require to cooperate within the context of value systems and cultures that differ from their own to address the challenges confronting global society. The diverse education offered at TUFS in the languages, cultures, and societies of various regions of the world provides a nurturing environment that instills in students a deeper understanding in and refined sensitivity for their chosen field, enhanced communication skills, and broader perspectives.

(2) The Type of Student We Seek

The undergraduate programs at TUFS offer basic grounding in a range of academic disciplines related to the languages, cultures, and societies of diverse regions of the world, as well as in fields that provide a cross-disciplinary perspective on diverse international problems and issues.

TUFS seeks students who have acquired a comprehensive and thorough basic high school education, either in Japan or elsewhere; who are able to think critically, make informed decisions, and express themselves articulately; who have inquiring minds and a thirst for knowledge; who support the University's mission; and who are eager to work together with people of diverse cultural backgrounds to tackle global problems and issues. The School of Japan Studies welcomes those who desire to study Japan from an international perspective to become global leaders with a deep understanding of Japan, or who seek to contribute to the advancement of multilingual and multicultural societies in Japan and elsewhere.

Future career opportunities are to be found in global corporations, Japanese companies seeking to expand globally, municipal, national, and international organizations, as well as in interpreting and translation, tourism and transport, publishing, media-related corporations, educational and research institutions involved in teaching Japanese language and culture, and as a teacher of the Japanese language in junior and senior high schools. Students may also elect to continue their studies at graduate school to pursue careers in research.

- (3) Selection Policy (School of Japan Studies Entrance Examination (English-Speaker track))
- This examination is for students seeking to entry the School of Japan Studies.
- This examination is for applicants who have completed secondary school and wish to enter the School of Japan Studies but are not yet proficient in Japanese.
- During the selection process, significant weight will be given to recommendations from overseas high schools.
- The selection process is comprised of a first and second screening. The first screening will be conducted using documents submitted by the applicant, such as academic transcripts and English proficiency scores. Those who pass the initial screening will advance to the second screening, which is carried out in the form of an online interview. During each screening, faculty members will assess applicants' desire to study at TUFS, basic academic skills, and ability to think critically, make informed decisions, and explain their ideas with clarity and precision.

■ Eligibility

Applicants must possess a non-Japanese nationality. In addition, they must meet ONE of the following conditions and ALL of the following qualifications:

1. Conditions

Applicants must meet one of the following conditions.
