Why the United Nations needs YOU: 70 years of Japan's UN membership and beyond

Ms. Kaoru Nemoto will speak about her career development as UN communicator, how the positive legacy of seven decades of UN-Japan partnership could help shape the architecture of global cooperation at the time of division and confrontation, and how young people play an important role in that process.

This lecture is part of the course “Working as an International Civil Servant” held every Thursday, second period, in Room 114.
